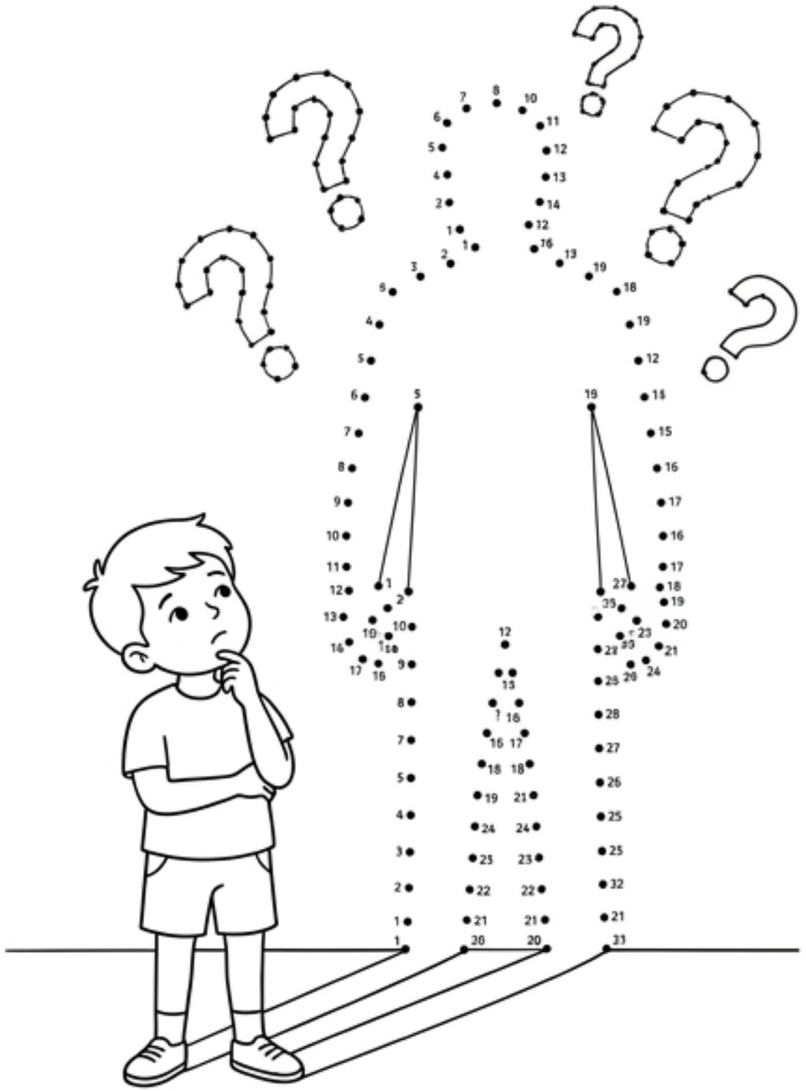
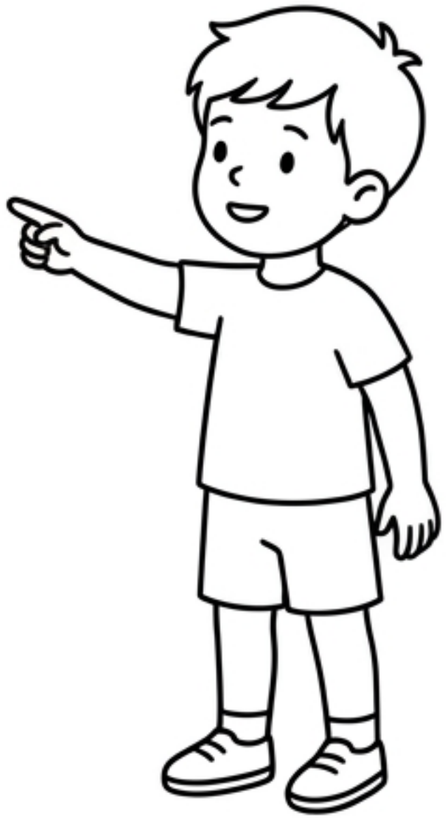
Big or Small? A Connect-the-Dots Storybook



Written by Mukesh Malviya | Illustrated by Shailja Jain Chougule | Adapted for Interactive Play

NotebookLM

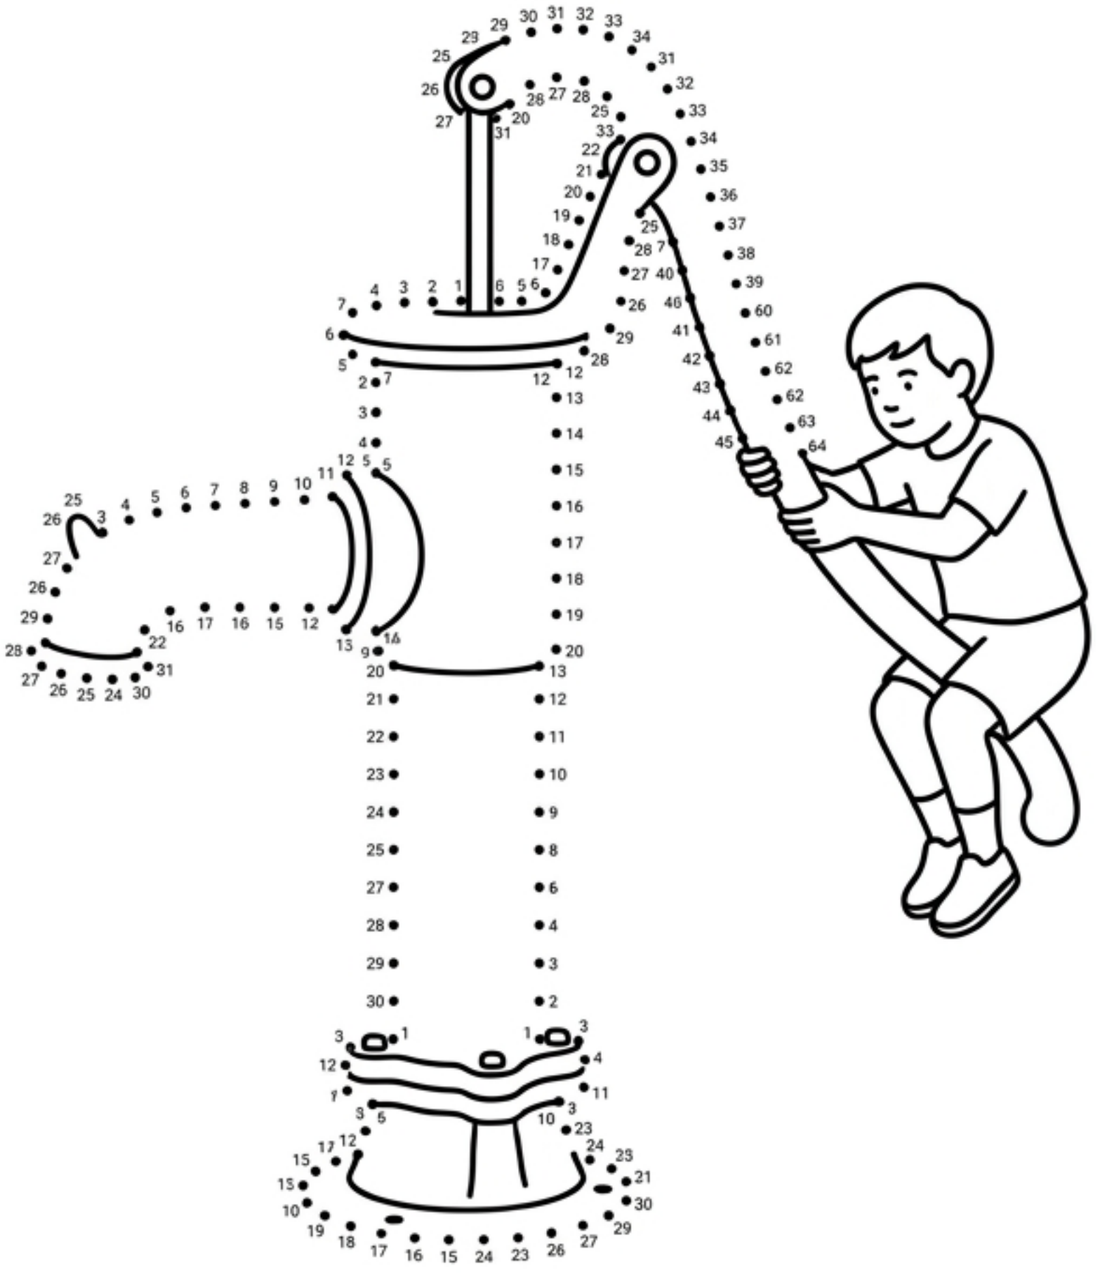
“Can I ride too?”
“No, you are still too small.”



NotebookLM

Sister, please pump the water for me.

You are big now. Pump it yourself.



NotebookLM

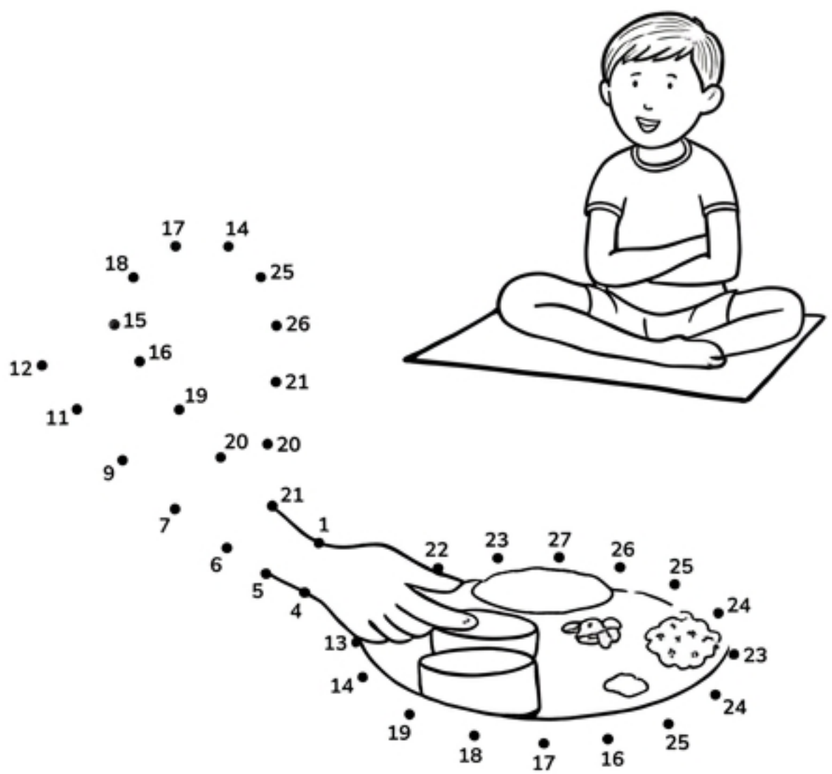
"Mom, can I cut vegetables too?"

"No, you are still too small."

NotebookLM

“Mom, please feed me.”

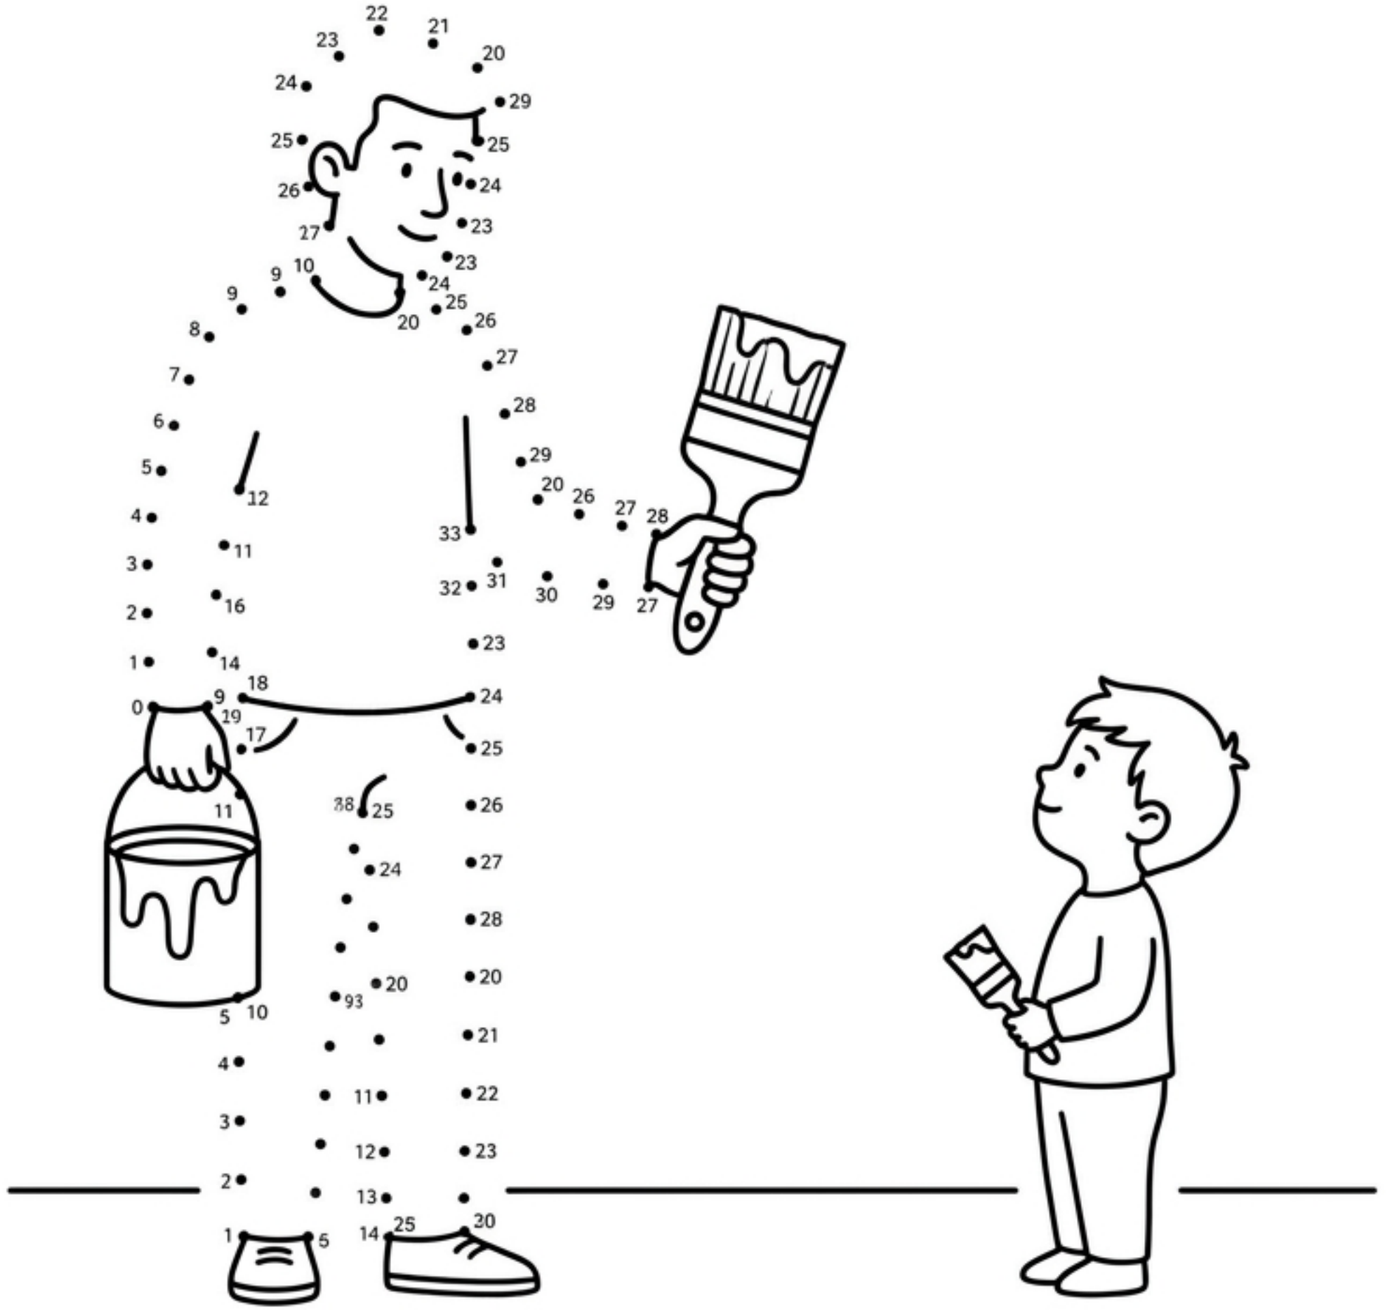
“You are big now. Eat by yourself.”



NotebookLM

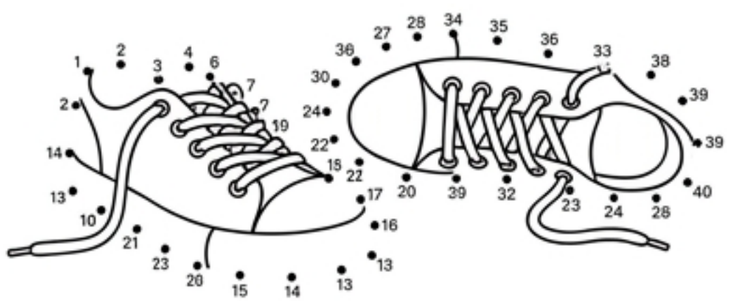
Can I paint too?

No, you are still too small.



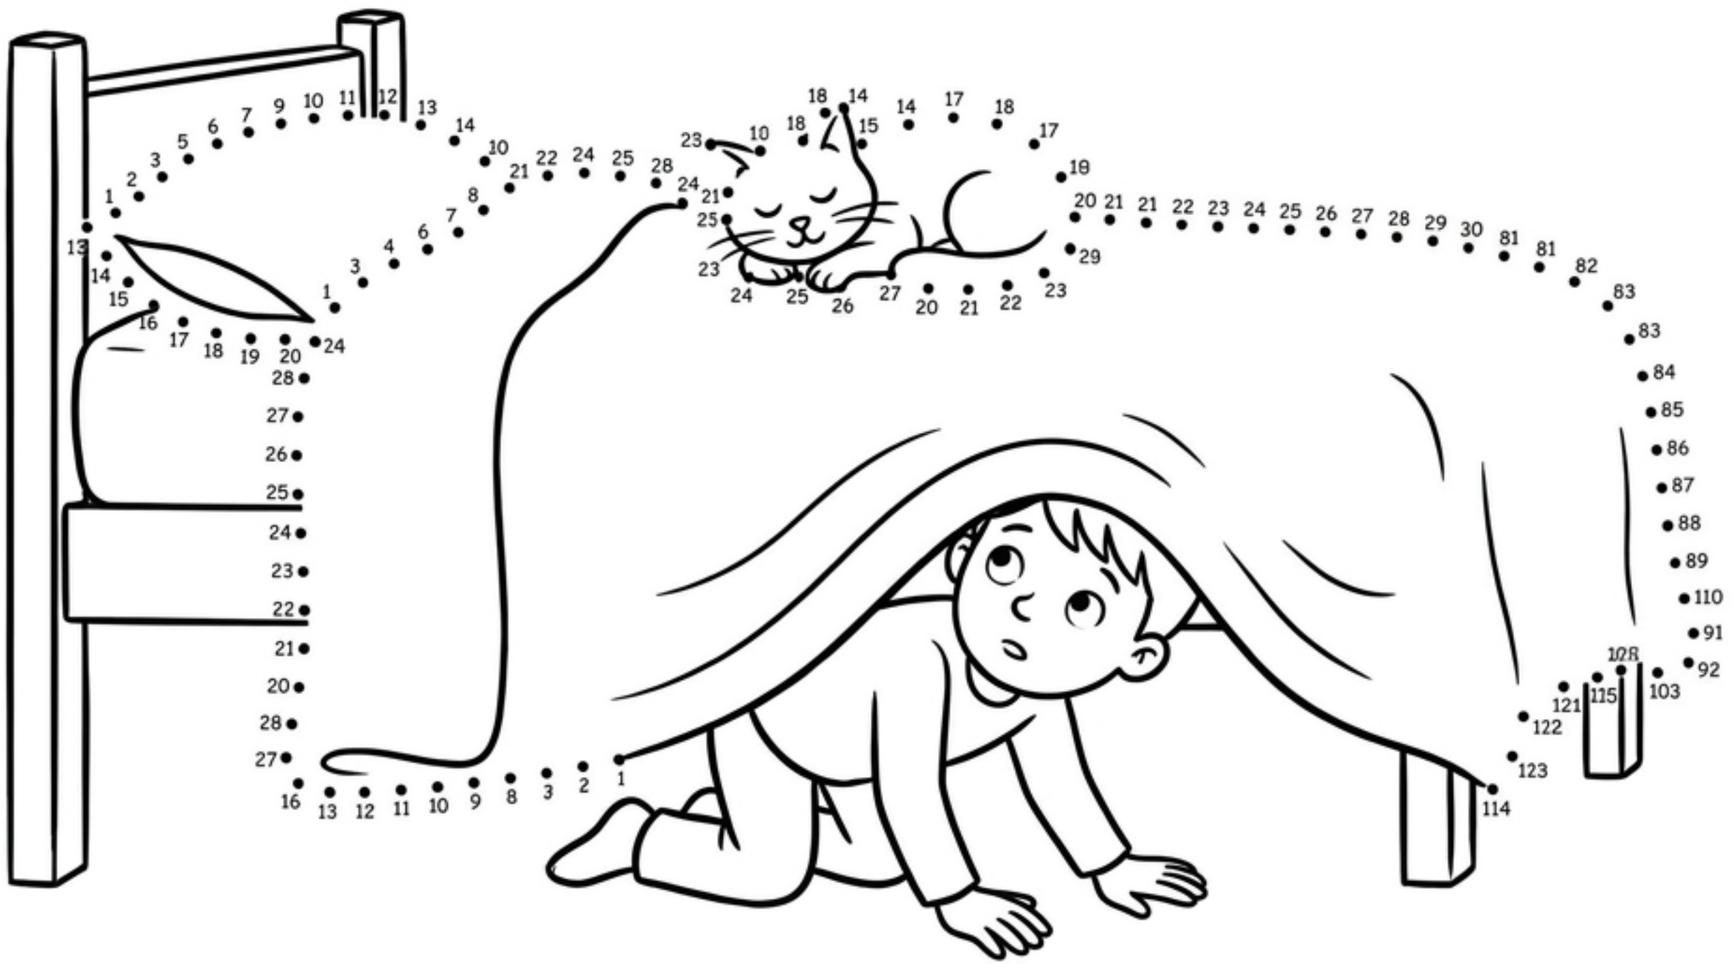
NotebookLM

Please help me put on my shoes.
You are big now. Wear them yourself.



NotebookLM

Am I big or am I small?

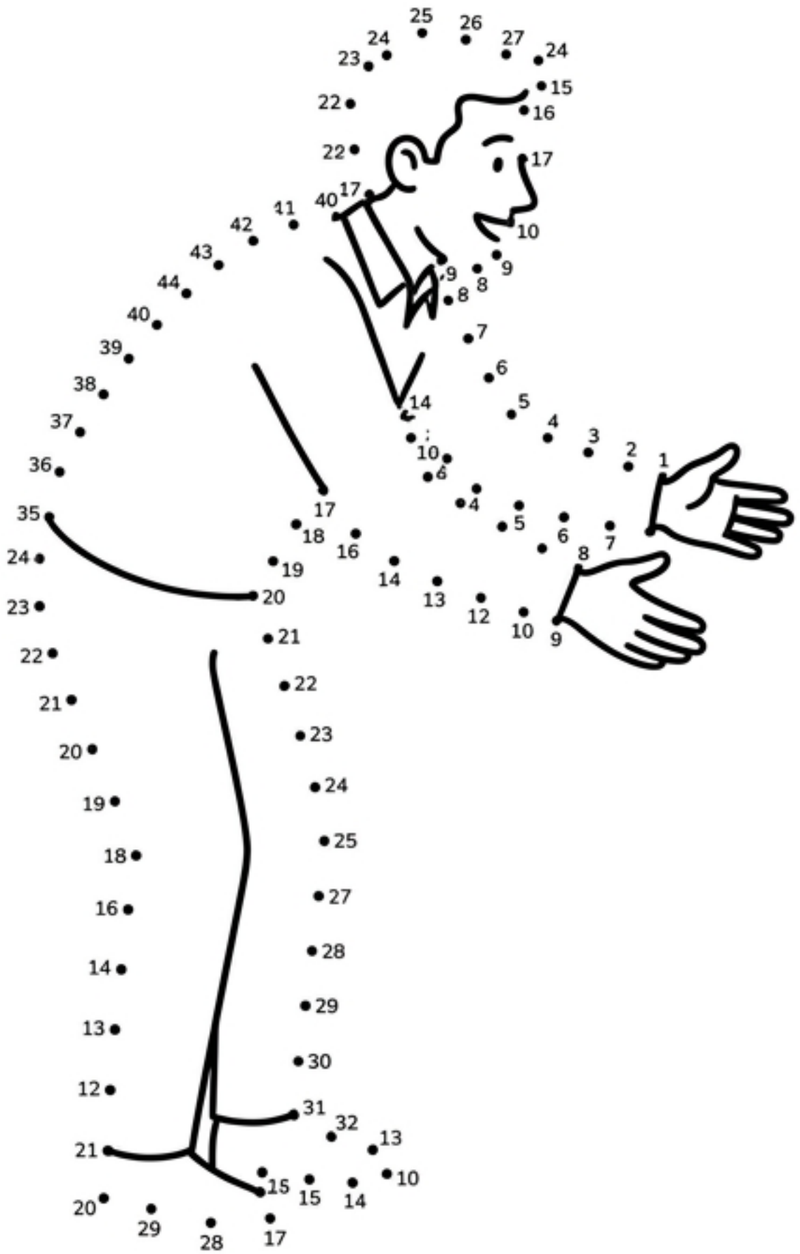


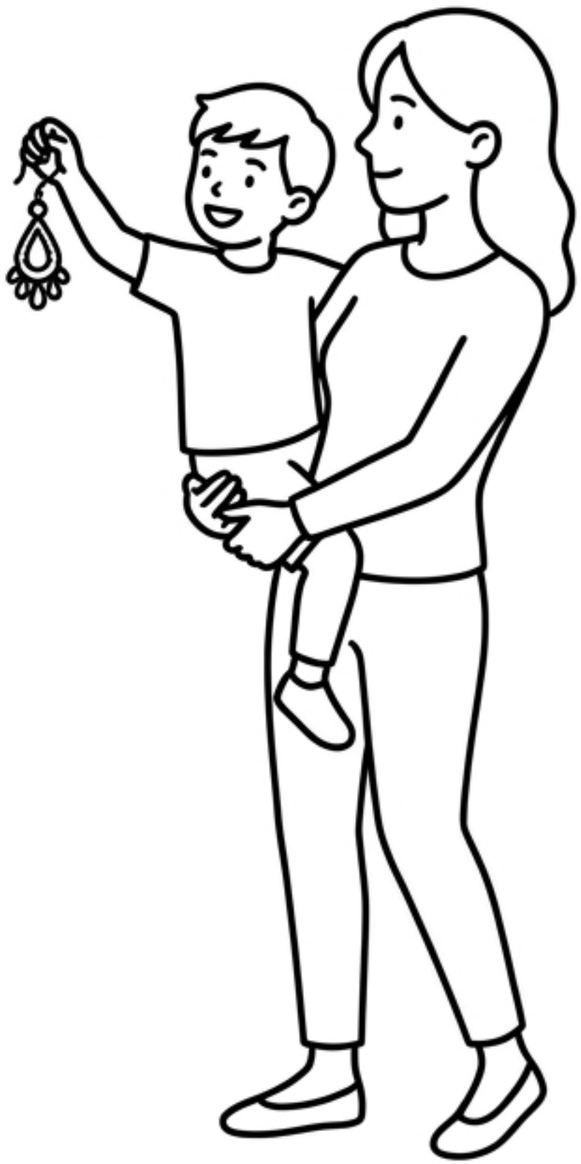
NotebookLM

NotebookLM

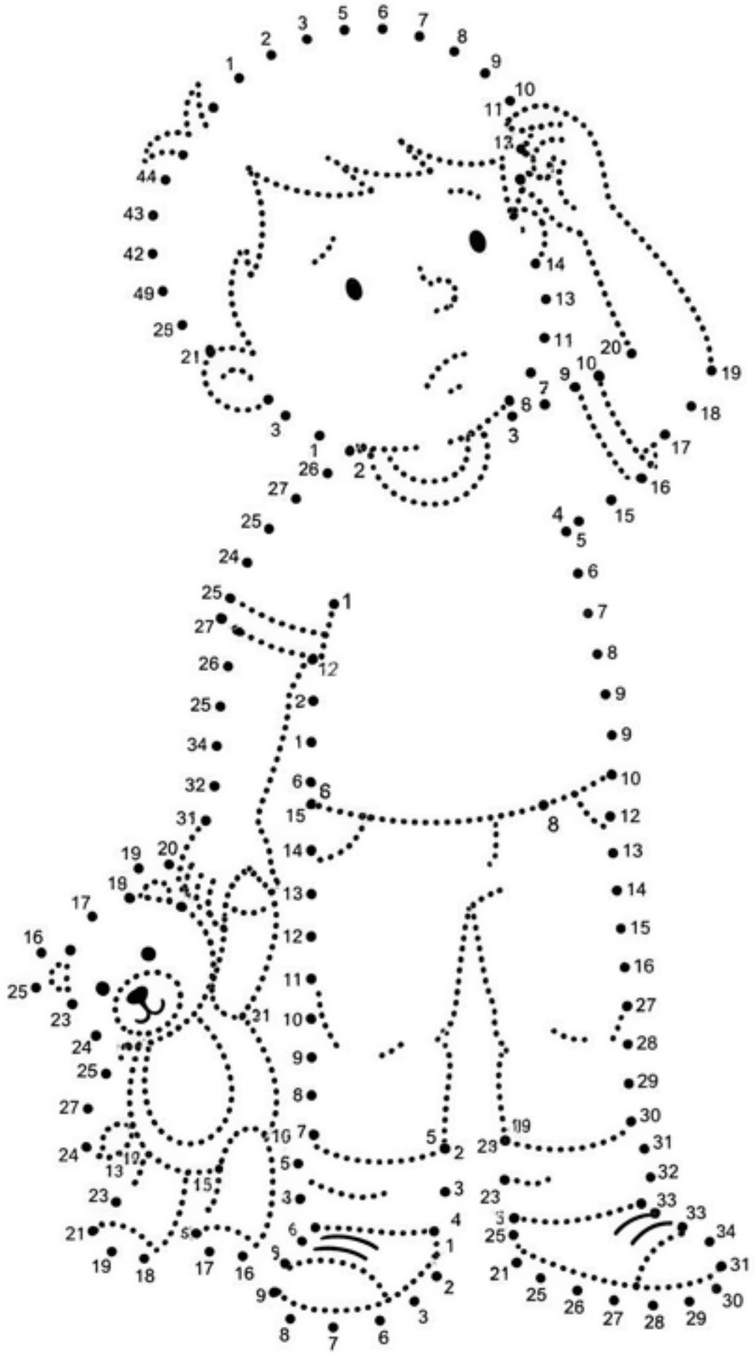
I searched everywhere for this!

Now you have become big!





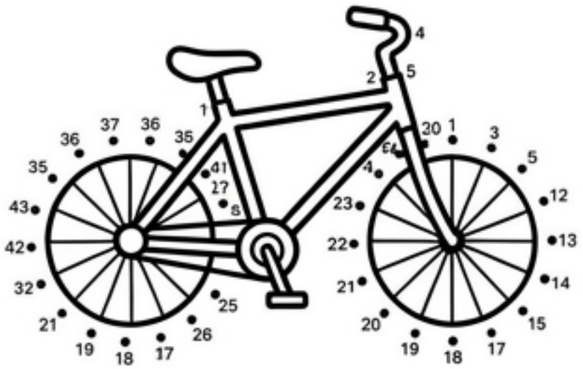
NotebookLM

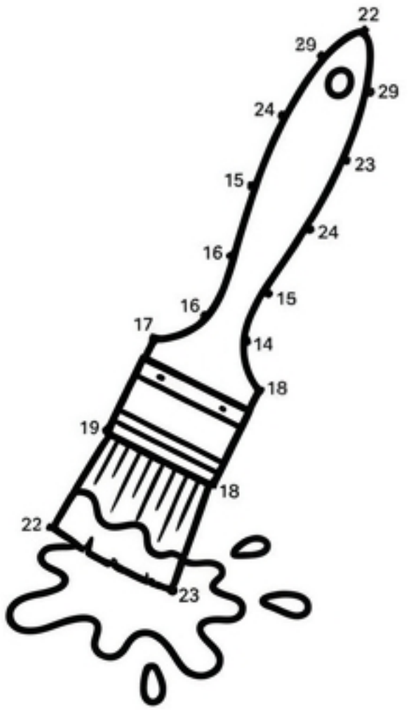


But I didn't even do anything!

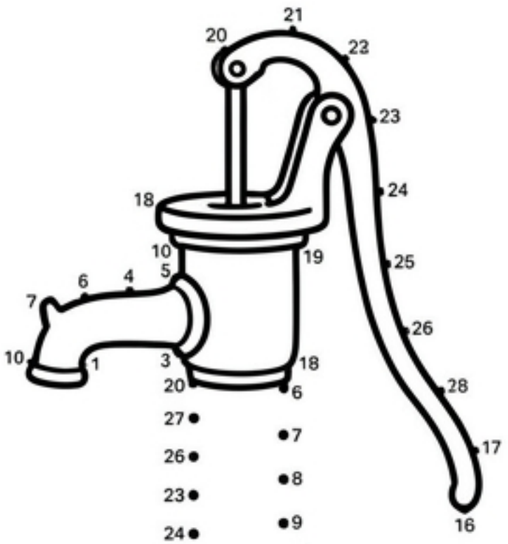
NotebookLM

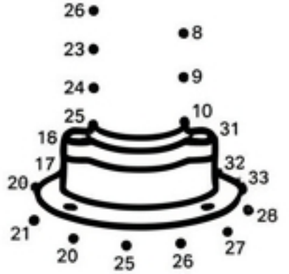
Still Too Small

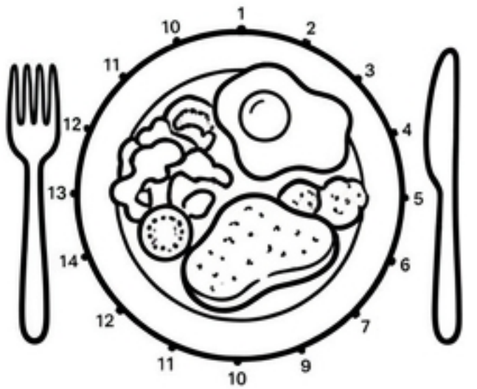




Big Now







Connect the dots in your own life. What are you big enough for today?

NotebookLM

storyweaver

PRATHAM BOOKS

Story Attribution: ‘Big or Small? (Bada ya Chhota)’ is written by Mukesh Malviya. © Room to Read, 2015. Released under CC BY 4.0 license.

Image Attribution: Illustrations by Shailja Jain Chougule © Room to Read, 2015.

Disclaimer: This presentation was derived from the original book available on StoryWeaver. Images have been reimagined as interactive connect-the-dot puzzles for educational purposes.

NotebookLM